Dementia Connect is the Alzheimer's Society's personalised support service for those with dementia and their carers, families and friends. It's free for service users, easy to access, and puts them in touch with our Dementia Advisers who can offer them the support, advice and information how they need it, when they need it. The service is fully integrated and is endorsed as part of the NHS Long Term Plan.

Types of support can include: providing information on dementia as a condition and how to live well with it; providing help with legal documents and form completion; signposting to dementia groups and other local community services and access to publications covering a wide range of dementia-related subjects.

Referrals can be made from individuals themselves, or on their behalf from their carers, friends, family, associated healthcare professionals or any professionals to which they have a relationship with.
