The Fatherhood Institute is one of the most respected fatherhood organisations in the world. A registered UK charity (number 1075104), our work focuses on policy, research and practice.

Our vision is of a society in which there's a great dad for every child – a society that:

gives all children a strong and positive relationship with their father and any father-figures supports both mothers and fathers as earners and carers, and prepares boys and girls for a future shared role in caring for children.

In working towards this vision we:

collate, participate in and publicise research

lobby for legal and policy changes help public services, employers and others become more father-inclusive, and work directly with families.

Tim Lovejoy

Watch TV presenter Tim Lovejoy talking about us and our work on ITV's Loose Women.

Read this article in the Blog on Learning and Development that sets out why dads matters to children's education (which is, of course, one of the main areas in which fathers, like mothers, impact on children).

What we do

We offer a wide range of training and consultancy services, including courses for family services, courses for schools, workplace courses, and bespoke consultancy.

FRED logoFathers Reading Every Day is our supported reading programme for fathers of children in schools and early years centres. This has been found to have significant positive impacts on children's reading and other aspects of attainment.

Family Foundations is our couple-focused ante- and post-natal intervention for new dads and mums. It is featured in the Early Intervention Foundation Guidebook, with a strength of evidence rating of 3 (out of 4), and was an 'exemplar' in a recent systematic review of parenting interventions.

#MITEY (Men In The Early Years) is our campaign to improve the gender balance of the UK's early years workforce.

We produce research summaries that collate the best evidence about fathers and fatherhood, to inform policy and practice; in 2017-18 we published the biggest ever review of research about UK fathers, funded by the Nuffield Foundation. We lobby for father-inclusive family policy, for example well paid, use-it-or-lose-it parental leave for dads.

We regularly provide seminars and webinars for corporate and other clients, about modern fatherhood and parenting issues. Please contact us for more details.

You will find many useful and free resources, including research summaries, policy briefings and practitioner downloads, throughout our website.

You can stay in touch with our work by signing up for our monthly e-newsletters and other eshots delivered to your inbox. We are also active on Facebook and Twitter.

We have a long history of successful collaboration with other organisations, including government departments, local authorities, schools and voluntary sector bodies. If you would like to discuss a possible partnership, please contact us.

The Fatherhood Institute is a tiny organisation with few overheads, which punches above its weight. We welcome donations.

Please note: we are not a membership organisation. We advocate for involved fatherhood but do not approach our work from a fathers' rights perspective.

If you are a father or other individual looking for personal advice or help with a particular issue or problem, please note that we cannot offer personal advice. We are NOT a fathers' rights organisation and so cannot lobby on your behalf. We do have a 'For Fathers' section on this website, which you may find useful – it includes a series of FAQs. You may also find it useful to follow our Facebook and Twitter pages.

For individual parenting enquiries, we suggest you contact Family Lives on 0808 800 2222. For issues involving separation and contact, contact Families Need Fathers on 0870 760 7496. For issues around employment rights, try the Government website.

Whatever your reason for contacting us, thank you for your interest in the Fatherhood Institute.
