This group are all working together on behalf of the wider system to reimagine the future of community mental health and promote a movement of change and innovation.

Lee Mellor, Communications and Involvement Specialist, Joined Up Care Derbyshire

The 'Derbyshire Dialogue' project has been set up to start a conversation with our population and those delivering and commissioning services. Local residents can tell Derbyshire Dialogue about their experience of services, what's been helpful, what else they may have found useful, any particular highlights or problems and what matters most to them about health and care services. This information is fed back to commissioners and providers to build on strengths and work on any areas that require further development.
