

CARLTON-IN-LINDRICK METHODIST CHURCH

CONTACT

September 2022

We're sorry to have start this issue on a rather sad note, having received news that

Rev Angela will no longer be the minister at Carlton.

Here's a letter from our Superintendent Minister, Rev Julie Coates, to explain the situation to you.

Dear Friends

As you may have heard, my colleague, Rev'd Angela Pothecary, has requested that her appointment be made part-time from 1st September 2022.

This change is a result of concerns about Angela's health and wellbeing, particularly in the light of her current family circumstances. (Her mum and her husband are both experiencing ill health.)

Steps are being put in place to reduce Angela's workload which means that she will no longer have pastoral charge of Carlton or South Anston Methodist Churches.

Angela will be honouring the preaching appointments allocated to her on the plan and taking the funerals, baptisms and other key events that are already in her diary. However, all other matters should be directed to me, or to the Circuit Admin Team, for the immediate future.

The members of the Circuit Leadership Team are praying for all of you at Carlton, we realise that this is a challenging time and that we are imparting some very upsetting news. We will be meeting with the Church Stewards and then the wider congregation as we seek to determine the best way forward.

Further details of the rearranged responsibilities for the Circuit staff will be prepared in time for the next Circuit Meeting at the end of September. However, there will be no pressure on the members at Carlton to make snap decisions about the future. Instead we want to prayerfully discern together the best course of action.

Angela wishes me to convey her sincere thanks to everyone for their understanding at this time.

Please continue to hold Angela and Phil in your prayers.

Grace and peace, Julie

Rev'd Julie Coates, on behalf of the Circuit Leadership Team

We hold Angela and Phil in our prayers, together with the Julie, Emily and all the Circuit Leadership Team as they work through implementing the necessary changes.

Bag 2 The Future

We will be having another clothing collection on Tuesday 15th November, so this is an advance notice if you'd like to clear your wardrobes etc to boost church funds, and also help those who receive the goods. They collect good quality adults' and children's clothing, paired shoes, hats, belts, handbags, soft toys, bedding, curtains, and towels. All items are for RE-USE. No bric-a-brac please. (They do not accept school or work uniforms, duvets, pillows and cushions.)

AUTUMN FLOWERS (Yvonne)

Michaelmas daisies flower in the autumn. The Feast of St Michael and all Angels who protect against the dark of night and evil, is on September 29th close to the equinox and shorter days. Goose was often eaten on Michaelmas Day. The Goose Fair in Nottingham is held around October 3rd. The flowers give colour and warmth when most are finished as autumn and winter approach.

Chrysanthemums are native to China and Japan where they are a symbol of a long and happy life. Chrysanthemum wine is drunk in China on 9th day of the 9th month for peace, health and old age.

Sunflowers face the sun as they are growing. The tallest grew to over 30 feet – over 9 metres! A field full of yellow flowers is a magnificent sight. The seeds are used for healthy snacks, sunflower oil and bird food.

Passion flowers are exotic and unusual. They were first found in Latin America and missionaries saw them as a sign of the work of God. The parts represent Christ's passion. The 10 petals represent the 10 faithful apostles – minus Peter and Judas. The three bracts represent the Trinity. The corona of hair like rays represents the crown of thorns and the tendrils are the cords that bound Jesus. The five lobed leaves are the hands of his persecutors.

Hydrangeas have been wonderful this year with many showy heads of pink, white, blue and mauve, depending on the soil. They represent gratitude, grace and beauty, also love, harmony and peace. Horta in the Azores is known as the Blue Island as there are miles of hedges of blue hydrangeas.

RECIPE CORNER (Yvonne)

Blackberries can be scattered on a tray bake of sausages or chicken with onions, potatoes, parsnips and seasoning, drizzled with oil and baked for 30-40 minutes.

Pork steaks with Blackberry sauce

1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar 150 ml beef stock (Oxo) 2 tablespoons of redcurrant jelly 1 crushed garlic clove 85g blackberries Cook steaks in oil to your liking – 5 minutes or so each side. Add balsamic vinegar to pan, then stock, redcurrant jelly and garlic. Stir to blend. Add blackberries and cook until soft.

Blackberry tea loaf

350g blackberries + extra to decorate 150g oil + extra for greasing 400g plain flour ½ tsp baking powder 200g sugar 4 eggs Oven 180°/160° fan/Mark 4.

Mix flour, baking powder and sugar in a bowl. Whisk in eggs & oil until smooth. Stir in blackberries. Pour into greased loaf tin and bake for 55 min – 1 hour until golden. When cool, decorate with melted white chocolate or icing and scatter blackberry halves on top.

My grandma's recipe for elderberry syrup has berries, 6 pints of liquor, 4lb sugar, cloves & ginger. 'This will keep for years and is excellent for coughs and sore throats.' She made blackberry vinegar too for pancakes.

AUTUMN

We've experienced unprecedented temperatures this summer, the second heatwave only just over, and now, all of a sudden, it's almost autumn. Tempus fugit (time flies), as my dear Grandad used to say.

On the meteorological calendar, the seasons have set dates in order to record and compare climate data, and the first day of autumn is always 1 September. Autumn, as defined by the earth's orbit around the sun, begins on the autumn equinox which falls on 22 or 23 September. From then on we have darkening nights, shorter days and cooler temperatures.

Probably the most obvious, and most beautiful sign of autumn, is the changing colours of the leaves. The shorter days are a sign to the trees to prepare for winter and there's plenty of science to explain how all that works! I've read only this morning that some trees are giving the impression autumn has come early, but experts have said it's a sign of a 'false autumn' because the heatwave and drought has pushed the trees into survival mode.

We've watched with horror the forest fires around the world, and also fires in the UK in the first heatwave, but this poem, entitled Autumn, speaks of another sort of 'fire'.

The fires of autumn smoulder down the lane, Gilding the hazels and the hedgerow elms. Lighting the lantern-berries of the briar, Staining the brambles with blood-red and gold. The bracken kindles on the hillside slope. The birches' flaring torches light the heath, The beeches flicker into towers of flame And all the drift of woodland is on fire.

Unknown

In America autumn is known as 'fall', but the word was actually in widespread use here right up to the 17th century, originally as a shortening of the phrase 'fall of the leaf'. The word autumn entered English from the French automne in the 18th century.

Fall leaves are beautiful!
God's blessings are breathtaking!

Autumn leaves, Jesus doesn't.

Fall for Jesus! He is truly un-be-leaf-able!

Fighting the Leaves

'Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind'; and 'Love your neighbour as yourself.'

Luke 10:27

We acquired Milli, our new puppy, a Cavalier King Charles Spaniel, during the last days of autumn. She loves leaves. In her view, going into the garden has nothing to do with toilet training. It was just a glorious opportunity to fight the leaves as they lay quietly in corners but she was really waiting for the wind.

When it came, swirling the leaves, moving them, lifting them, she was ecstatic. Maybe she saw them as barbarian hordes to be attacked and repelled; she would leap and run and pounce on them. Sometimes it was just one particular leaf she'd follow and capture, then chew it to bits. It was fun to watch, although I'm sure there's a serious purpose behind it, an instinctive urge in her to practise and develop her agility and strength.

What impressed me most though, after the laughter, was the way she threw herself into the adventure. It was all or nothing. Fighting the leaves took all her attention, all her energy and commitment. I'm supposed to be training Milli, but I think she's training me. She's telling me that if I want to make a good job of all I do today I'd better use the same commitment and energy she uses. That goes for our friendships too.

And when it's all over, Milli knows just how to curl up and relax – on the sofa. I find that easier to do.

Lord of love and laughter, I give myself to you without reserve. At least, that's what I aim to do. Give me a helping hand.

Eddie Askew (2003)

It's the first day of autumn!
A time of hot chocolatey mornings, and toasty marshmallow evenings, and, best of all, leaping into leaves!

I loved autumn, the season of the year that God seemed to have put there just for the beauty of it.

Lee Maynard

If a year was tucked inside of a clock, then autumn would be the magic hour.

Victoria Erickson

To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven.

The Good Samaritan

Hello

Jesus was approached by one of the Jews who was faithful. He kept the Law and worshipped regularly. He asked Jesus how he could go to heaven when he died. "What are the commandments?" asked Jesus. The Jew said, "Love God and love your neighbour." "You are right,." said Jesus, "Keep these and you will live in heaven," replied Jesus. The Jew asked, "But who is my neighbour?" Jesus told him this story. (You can read it in Luke chapter 10 verses 25 to 37.)

A Jewish man was walking along a country road from Jerusalem to Jericho when he was attacked and robbed. He was left naked and unconscious at the side of the road. A priest came along the road. In those days there were no phones, police or ambulances. The priest was going to be late if he stopped, so he walked past on the other side of the road. A Levite (or lawyer) came past and walked on because he would have had to go through a special process to make himself 'clean' if he touched the man.

A Samaritan man who was a foreigner, from a tribe that most Jews would not touch, came along. He went to the man and cleaned his wounds with his own drinking water and bandaged them. He then lifted the injured man onto his own donkey and led it to an inn. He gave some money, called Denarii, to the innkeeper and said, "Look after this man and if it costs any more I will pay it next time I come."

"Who was neighbour to the injured man?" asked Jesus. "The one who helped him," said the Jew. "Go and do the same," said Jesus.

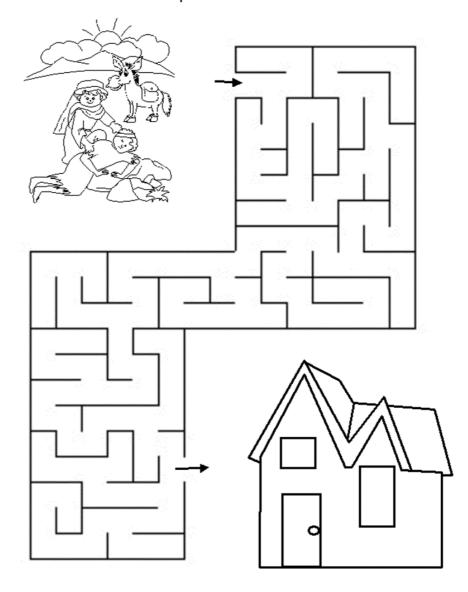

What would you do if you found someone injured? You might need to tell an adult, or you might be able to ring 999 for help.

Can you think of any other ways that you can be helpful?

God Bless you. Rev Alan
